“First, think. Second, believe. Third, dream. And finally, dare.” Walt Disney
Song inspired by Alan Cohen from his book: “Dare to Be Yourself”

Let It Shine

Words & Music: Karen Drucker

I’m gonna be the first on the dance floor, the first to raise my hand.
The first to state my opinion, the first to take a stand.
I won’t play it safe and wait for a sign,
I’m gonna throw myself out there and let my light shine.
Let it shine, let it shine,
I let my big bright brilliant beam of radiant light shine.

I’ll be on ‘Oprah’ and ‘Conan’, ‘60 Minutes’ and ‘The View’.
They’ll all be talking about me and all the things I do.
I’ll be the one who sets the bar, the one who’s in the know.
‘Vogue’ will come to me to see where fashion trends will go.
’Cause I shine, yes I shine,
I let my big bright brilliant beam of radiant light shine.

For too many years I hid my light, feared I was too much and who I was just wasn’t right.
Then I heard this voice from within and up above saying
“You’re here to be a shining light and give and receive love”.

So now I’m going for my dreams, nothin’s in my way.
“Carpe Diem” is my mantra, I practice kindness every day.
I take time to connect, take time to have fun,
I wanna know I’ve used up every drop before my life is done.
So I shine, yes I shine,
I let my big bright brilliant beam of radiant light shine.

I am a woman of power, a woman of grace.
The life that I’ve lived is in every wrinkle on my face.
I love myself so I can love you too,
I know when we’re connected there ain’t nothin’ we can’t do.
So let’s shine, let’s all shine,
Let’s let our big bright brilliant beam of radiant light shine!
